VACANCY

Transaction Services Lead

The Transaction Services Lead will shape the new commercial due diligence business in the Netherlands. Main responsibilities include building, growing, and leading the Transaction Services team and developing, marketing, and selling the proposition in the Dutch market. The Transaction Services Lead will be supported by the Partner team in the Amsterdam office and by Mark Maitland, the UK-based Head of Transaction Services who oversees Simon-Kucher's Transaction Services efforts in the UK and the Netherlands.

The Transaction Services Lead will own the new proposition in its full breadth: from marketing, business development, and recruitment of a dedicated team to project delivery and building and maintaining client relations. Target clients are mainly mid- to large-cap PE funds, with many of which Simon-Kucher already has strong ties. The Transaction Services Lead's core focus will be commercial DDs with investment theses mainly revolving around growth. They will also collaborate with other parts of Simon-Kucher on (cross-border) projects and support clients with related challenges.

Building, leading, and coaching the team is one of the primary responsibilities of the Transaction Services Lead. They will support the team throughout project execution and take on an active role in creating high-quality output. The Transaction Services Lead will manage the workstreams, develop the main deal hypotheses, build the workplan, and storyboard and present compelling presentations to their clients to guide their decision-making.

The position provides the chance to build a business from the very beginning in an entrepreneurial environment where they will get full ownership and experience a steep learning curve. The Transaction Services Lead will be commercially responsible for the success of the team in Amsterdam and, if they deliver on the company's expectations, have the opportunity to make Partner. ■
