 Amsterdam

Svalner Atlas Advisors is launching its Financial Due Diligence (FDD) practice in the Netherlands to strengthen the M&A offering for its corporate and private equity clients. The Consultant will contribute to high-quality analyses, gaining early exposure to complex transactions and playing an active role in shaping a growing practice.

About Svalner Atlas Advisors

Svalner Atlas Advisors is the premier independent advisory group in Northern Europe. Formed in 2024 through the merger of the Dutch firm Atlas and Swedish Svalner, the group now has a team of over three hundred and fifty professionals and offices spanning Stockholm, Amsterdam, Helsinki, Oslo, Gothenburg, Copenhagen and Turku. Together, they provide clients with top-tier advice in tax, transaction services and related services.

Svalner Atlas Advisors combines the energy of a scale-up with the depth and stability of an established firm. The founders are seasoned professionals with Big Four backgrounds who aimed to create an alternative practice: a lean and smart firm where top-tier talent can thrive through providing partner-led advice to clients with true commercial value. The firm partners with ambitious companies, funds, and entrepreneurs to deliver solutions that are both sophisticated and down-to-earth.

Whether advising on a cross-border M&A deal or designing a tailored tax structure, Svalner Atlas Advisors delivers practical expertise with impact. The group is scaling fast, launching new practices, entering new markets, and investing in technology, people, and long-term client relationships.

Consultant Financial Due Diligence

Svalner Atlas Advisors is launching its Financial Due Diligence (FDD) practice in the Netherlands to meet growing client demand and expand its transaction services offering. The ambition is to scale the practice to between fifteen and twenty professionals within two years, delivering consistent recurring revenue, and establishing Atlas as the leading independent alternative to the Dutch private equity mid-market.

The Consultant will be an important member of the newly formed FDD team in the Netherlands, supporting projects from start to finish while working closely with the Partner, Director, and Manager. They will take responsibility for analyses that form the foundation of due diligence assignments, contributing to reporting and client delivery.

Typical assignments include dissecting historical performance, analyzing working capital dynamics, preparing equity bridges and identifying risks and opportunities in financial statements. The Consultant has an eye for detail, unlocking data, performing financial modelling, and drafting parts of reports, while receiving guidance and feedback from senior colleagues. This role offers an accelerated learning curve with early exposure to complex transactions and direct client interactions.

The ideal candidate has strong technical skills in financial analysis, modelling and report writing, as well as a genuine interest in understanding how businesses create value. Hands-on, pragmatic, collaborative, and eager to learn, they are motivated by ownership and visibility. With a growth mindset and ambition, the Consultant will quickly develop the skills needed to progress into a Manager role.

“This is a rare opportunity to join a professional services boutique in the heart of Amsterdam while speeding up your career as you have direct access to the professional experience of partners and clients.”

Michiel Koopmanschap, FDD Partner

At Svalner Atlas Advisors, every contribution counts. Initiative is rewarded with ownership and accelerated progression. Based in the heart of Amsterdam, this role offers ambitious individuals the chance to accelerate their career, gain broad exposure, and contribute to a dynamic new team. This role is perfect for an early-career finance professional with a genuine interest in financial due diligence who is eager to learn, take on responsibility quickly, and thrive in a fast-growing boutique environment.
